What makes these classes special?

Creative Exploration vocal techniques help children to discover voice awareness and a music vocabulary all their own. Instead of just copying and covering established songs, these classes teach kids how to create their OWN songs and music through fun, interactive exercises. Singing is a great way for kids to get into music free from the intimidation of learning an instrument. Through tapping into kids' natural ability to play, these classes build musicianship through story-telling, games, and goofing off. Kids come away with improved confidence, collaboration skills and the ability to create music out of thin air!
